

Gideon Taylor

Mr. Taylor serves as Executive Vice President of EWKA Inc., a commercial real estate company with office and retail assets as well as other investments primarily in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

In June 2020, Taylor was elected President of the Board of Directors of the Conference on Jewish Material Claims Against Germany (Claims Conference). The Claims Conference is responsible for recovering former Jewish Holocaust-era property and compensation and for distributing Holocaust restitution and compensation to Nazi victims as well as promoting Holocaust education.

Mr. Taylor previously served as Executive Vice President Claims Conference from 2000 to 2009. As Executive Vice President, he led a series of complex negotiations regarding Holocaust-era compensation and restitution with foreign governments such as Germany and Austria as well as the banking and manufacturing sectors. Negotiations included those leading to the establishment of the $5 billion German Foundation, "Remembrance, Responsibility, and the Future" which provided compensation for former slave and forced laborers, as well as the settlement with the Swiss Banks. He also supervised a program for recovery of unclaimed Jewish property in former East Germany through claims for, and sales of, buildings and land. He expanded a worldwide allocations program for social assistance and Holocaust education programs to 700 agencies worldwide. He oversaw the distribution of individual compensation totaling $6 billion to hundreds of thousands of Nazi victims in 70 countries worldwide.

Mr. Taylor has also served as Associate Executive Vice President at the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee (JDC), the overseas humanitarian arm of the American Jewish community. He directed rescue operations in Syria and Yemen and coordinated activities in Ethiopia. He also oversaw JDC's International Development Program, which implemented major disaster relief, and development programs in Africa, the Middle East and Europe. He subsequently managed the global program and the $250 million budget of the organization.

In 2013, in a volunteer lay capacity, he became Chair of Operations of the World Jewish Restitution Organization (WJRO). WJRO is the representative of world Jewry in pursuing claims for the recovery of Jewish properties seized during the Holocaust in Eastern Europe. He oversaw the restructuring of WJRO and a major expansion of activity in 12 countries including Poland, Hungary, Romania and the Baltics. WJRO has secured the passage of legislation regarding heirless Jewish property in Serbia, former Jewish communal property in Romania and Latvia, and social welfare payments for Holocaust survivors from Poland. Foundations established by WJRO together with the local Jewish communities in Romania, Poland, and Lithuania allocate funds for welfare and Jewish communal activity. WJRO has increased advocacy efforts in a range of countries and now has operations in Washington and Brussels.

He also serves in a voluntary lay capacity as Co-Chair of the Board of the Foundation for the Preservation of Jewish Heritage in Poland, and as a Member of the Board of Directors of a number of organizations including Friends of Jewish Heritage in Poland.

Originally from Dublin, Ireland, Mr. Taylor is a law graduate of Trinity College in Dublin and received his master's degree in law from Oxford University. He is admitted as an attorney in the State of New York, Ireland and the United Kingdom.
